Bean fields have been washed out, it is believed, and all of the farm land has been given the moisture it requires and the rains have brought Lake Okechobee to a level more satisfactory to most growers.

Batteries: Watson and Gibbons, Walter and Sapp. Dugan Cobb led the Hudson team with four hits and a walk-off five runs to the plate. Floyd Watson knocked two-baggers and Wheeler came through with a two-run hit.

Alabama Bill Graham's long homer in the second and the sensational hitting of E. C. Kilpatrick in left field kept the Sterling team in the running. Crosby's brouhaha in the runs with a hard single to right in the sixth and scored later on Padgett's hard hit to right. Stirling got men on base and third with one out in the sixth but failed to score when Watson tightened up and forced Amcar and Walker to pop up.

BOE TEAM TAKES TWO
As proof that their loss on Thursday to the Hudson Mercantile team was merely the result of an off-day, Boe's Automotive Service players, the lead team in the East Beach diamond ball league, came forth with flying colors again this week end to defeat the Thomas & Barrett team in a twelve-inning game on the Pahokee diamond Saturday afternoon by a score of 3 to 2, and the crack tri-jack Sandy Loan farm team from West Palm Beach by a score of 4 to 1 in an exciting game on the Pahokee diamond Sunday afternoon.

EAST BEACH DIAMOND BALL
The double header on the sugar mill diamond August 30, saw Pahokee's best team completely routed by the two aggregations from Canal Point.

In the first game the Hudson Mercantile team handed the Boe's Automotive Service team, winners of the first half, its first shut-out of the season. The Hudson boys played errorless ball, fielded sensationally and hit hard behind the three-bit pitching of Blundy Graham. Most of the eleven hits came after men had been put on the bases through errors or walks and accounted for the 19 runs being scored. Graham helped his cause by bringing in three runs with a triple in the second inning and Rosenberg accomplished the same feat in the third. The scoring started when Gibbons doubled with a grand slam and second in the first inning and led up only after the game was safely stuck away.

In the second game Pope Ross of Amcar had the Amcar & Barrett boys in the palm of his hand except in the fifth when they scored their three runs. Ed Spooner, pitching for Thomas & Barrett pitched a fair game but fielded erratically.

To the Editor:

I herewith enclose check for $3.00 for a year's subscription to your paper. I wish to again compliment you on the good character of your publication and timely and fearless views on important questions of the day. What I gather from the columns of your paper it would seem to indicate that finally constructive operations for the control of the Okeechobee floods is well under way. Of course this does not in any way drain the Everglades and it certainly is a shame that so large an area of the Everglades at a very large cost have been drained sufficiently only to burn and be destroyed and not enough to be made usable.

"As You Desire Me"

Surpassing the beauty, the thrill, the glory of her past triumphs in "As You Desire Me," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer takes pride in this new sensation. A new motion picture of glamorous Greta Garbo is truly an event in the theatre! We believe she has never been more alluring than now in this absorbing romance. It has been prophesied that Greta Garbo will take her place among the immortals of the world of acting, that years from now each of her dramas will live to be viewed again and again. We are of a generation which acclaims this exquisite personality at the height of her glory.

"Letty Lynton"

A discovery affair. The story is that of an heiress whose preoccupation with the new "feminine freedom" enlarges her to a dangerous affair with an avowed South American lover. When she ultimately leaves him for her true love, an American, she is followed by her former lover and is subsequently involved in a sensational murder. The results of the South American's death with all fingers pointing to her as the murderer, make for a gripping drama of the first order, giving Miss Crawford and Montgomery every opportunity for effective portrayals. Among the film's high-powered episodes are the girl's attempt to break off her relations with the ruthless South American, the sensational discovery of his death in a New York hotel, the battle of wits in the district attorney's office and the dramatic climax in the girl's home. The stars are supported by a strong cast including Miss Astor, Miss May Robson, and Miss Louie, and Emma Dunn.

"What Price Hollywood?"

With a galaxy of celebrities in support, Miss Bennett unfolds the intrigues and intimacies of the inner and more notable circles of the film capital, Lowell Sherman, Neil Hamilton, Gregory, E. J. R. Louise Beavers and others are the star to present an authentic scrutiny of Hollywood life. The action traverses the thoroughfare of social life coupled with a delightful tale. Malibu Beach, the Brown Derby Restaurant, glittering Hollywood Boulevard, Agua Caliente, a Chinese theatre premiere and the princely estate of Beverly Hills partake of the film footage to enhance the story. Moreover, every phase of talking picture making is frankly revealed.

The story of "What Price Hollywood?" concerns an ambitious girl who craves the studio gates, the famed director to gain rank on the screen.

A READER'S VIEW

Mt. Lebanon, Pittsburgh, Pa., August 16, 1932.

To the Editor:

Do not know exactly how the Federal government engineers are going to run the levee from E. I. Fund to the south end of Lake Okeechobee, but if they run it directly south it will leave a portion of Pelican bay of about two miles wide and four miles long, which could be made into a little inland lake, and make a harbor for the many boats that will ply Lake Okeechobee as the country builds up; it also could be made the basis for making and maintaining a park around its shores, for the many people who some day will be making their home around beautiful Lake Okeechobee, but who will be prevented from making parks on its banks by reason of the height of the levee, which unless one is perched on the top of the levee.

The reason I am writing this letter is the article in your paper which states that the trustees of the I. F. Fund are constructing and enclosing 2,000 acres of Pelican bay, and believing that this land is part of what I feel should be devoted to an inland lake, and nucleus for a public park sometime later, but I feel that the trustees after reclaiming will sell this land off for farming purposes, thus depriving one of the greatest assets for the future public, and an act by the I. F. Fund which would be a blot on the glory of good land, all around the Glades without encroaching on the water front.

Am looking a little into the future and believe you and the people of the upper Glades will prosper in any attempt of the state for a few meagre dollars, to destroy this irredeemable asset, without great expense to the public, for when once sold, it would be almost impossible to rebuy without paying exorbitant prices.

Trusting you will give this action your kind consideration and act in accord with its justification.

Yours sincerely,

ROBERT MOLL.

Glades Problems

without correcting old ones.

Many Florida croppers have failed to develop farm homes because of the abundance of cheap rental land and because much land is not pleasant for home sites. Unimproved conditions it is not a farm problem. In fact, the cost of reclamation exceeds the price of good land or land of the same productivity elsewhere.

Much of it has already cost more than it is worth. If dried the land burns. The extinguishing of muck fires is difficult and expensive. It is also quite likely that fires start spontaneously in muck. Recent investigation in Louisiana seems to indicate this. The fires which may start by spontaneous combustion in muck are a serious menace aside from the soil. It is a land which has a strong odor and smells like smoke and atmosphere interfering seriously with the health of the people.

Everglade reclamation so far has done little but to pile water on the soil. The water in the winter, burning might stop the muck from rotting, but it is a very porous water will not flow freely in ditches. In dry times the muck might be insufficient. Because of the water hyacinths, ditches would be difficult to maintain.

The canals are now full of water hyacinths that they are practically useless. An automobile failed to sink in a canal near Pahokee. Anybody who has lived long in Florida knows the seriousness of the trouble. Because of the muck on fire and the ditches jam full of hyacinths the project from an agricultural aspect looks on a high level between Canal Point and Pahokee, state fifty by fifty feet. Also for rent or sale of land, there are no fine places, and as well protected from frost as can be found in this section. There is approximately fifteen acres including the Ridge property, from which ten choice buildings.

Then there is the frost menace for tender crops, because muck does not hold heat in cool weather as do mineral soils. Lowering the water table a few inches or even feet would not increase the frost damage. Warm shallow water might at first keep off frost, but this film of water soon loses its heat and would then tend to prolong the cold.

Deep water acts like a warming pan in winter and a refrigerator in summer. This is noticeable wherever there are deep canals. The central part of this state, I believe the climate of Miami would be improved by the draining of all waters in its vicinity. Deep water with islands is better than a lot of shallow water for many reasons.

The drainage of the Everglades therefore resolves itself into a problem of general public welfare for the prevention of floods in hurricanes and the improvement of our climate.

When the winds blow hard, when the water from away up the state is rolling into Lake Okeechobee and when the whole area is one big lake with rain falling in torrents, a dike such as the present mental dike already constructed would probably be whipped away like a pin. Even the St. Johns river flows south sometimes and I have often wondered why all this water should be kept upon the southern shore of the state.

We have been dreading not insulating on a navigable canal from Palm Beach to Fort Myers, fit at least for pleasure craft. This canal has been dug and allowed to fill with hyacinths. What ought to be a means of transportation from coast to coast is now nothing but a flower bed. This canal should hold the southern shore of the lake.

On the south side of the canal there should be a big spoil bank the higher the better. This 'spoil bank' should be planted to trees and should completely separate this part of the state from all water and all land to the north of it. Let all excess Okeechobee water flow into the ocean and Gulf through this canal. It can be no reason for bringing it all the way to Miami.

Keep this canal wide, deep and clean. South of this only the water which falls in rain or comes from springs will have to be considered. Water from up state will no longer bother us. Then forget the Everglades and turn it back to the birds and fishes, except to plant the canal banks to trees to serve as seed producers and windbreaks. There are seven acres of trees fit for this purpose.

Trees would drain it and protect our climate. Louisiana has become one of the greatest fruit producing states in the union—greater than Canada, and Louisiana in Missouri, the world's greatest fruit center. The same could happen here. We must not forget that South Florida is mainly the product of wind and waves. The wind and waves form them can not stay put without a covering of deep rooted vegetation.

Taxes should be lifted from the land. Land has borne the brunt of taxation long enough. It cannot move away and cannot be hid. A man in an office can map and tax it. It is the easiest, but by far the unfair way to levy tribute. A general sales tax, income tax, inheritance tax and a tax on the products of the soil ought to be enough to yield enough to satisfy any tax gatherer.

A tax on wild unproductive land would be a joke were it not so serious. There is no value there till man's mind and work develop it. Land of no value should not be taxed. Divorce land and man and its value is gone. Tax only the products of the land and then the man who works the basic industry of the world will have a chance with other industries. Cut out pity for the man who has nothing. Pity the man who pawns his wife's jewelry to save his household.

The Five Requirements of a Modern Motor Oil:

- ★ Least body change with extreme temperature changes. (Keeps Body)
- ★ Free fluidity under low temperature conditions. (Winter Fluidity)
- ★ Freedom from excessive or hard-to-remove carbon deposits in the cylinders. (Low Carbon)
- ★ Resistance to evaporation losses at high temperatures. (Low Consumption)
- ★ Stability of lubrication value over long periods of use. (Long Life)

It makes no difference whether an oil comes from—who makes it or sells it. If it does not meet every single one of the five requirements listed above it is not suited to modern high compression engines. Only Essolube meets all five requirements.
